

Dear Maria,

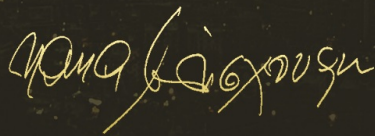

After listening to your newest Album (Silence), I was impressed and admired the distinctive sound you create.

You add with discretion to your classical melodies a few electronic instruments to express your emotions carefully, remaining human without losing your identity. With your melancholic or joyful sounds, with new rhythms, you search to invent the right atmosphere to describe feelings of our times.

Young musicians are destined to project the music to the future, and you can as well achieve this, if you believe in what you do, as long as you follow this wonderful journey into the precious source of music, by listening, learning, composing with love, energy, honesty, respect and humility.

Have a safe and successful journey in music. With love and affection.
